

In Vivo Technician

Toxikon Corporation is a preclinical contract research organization. We contract and partner with biotech, pharmaceutical and medical device industries to deliver exceptional product development services from concept to final product.

We are seeking Entry Level Technicians for our In Vivo Department to support animal studies alongside research staff under numerous GLP/ other guidelines, protocols, and Standard Operating Procedures and in an AAALAC-accredited facility. The responsibilities include animal handling / husbandry; data collection and recording; data package preparation; sample preparation; dosing, and; surgical assistance. The successful candidate will also document and validate preparation and characterization procedures, and; maintain laboratory materials inventory. Opportunities for superior training and certification with the American Association for Laboratory Animal Science exist.

Ideal candidates will hold a bachelor's degree in a life science (biological sciences, biotechnology, zoology, biochemistry, animal science). Prior small animal, research, animal husbandry, and/or laboratory experience is preferred, but non-experienced candidates will be considered. The candidate will have strong communication and organizational skills and the ability to handle multiple tasks while maintaining attention to detail and quality. The candidate will work closely with other technicians, scientists, veterinarians, and regulatory affairs personnel.

Toxikon offers a comprehensive benefits program including: paid vacation, sick and personal time; 401(k) plan with company match; medical, dental, vision care, life, and short and long-term disability insurances; flexible spending accounts; employee assistance program; employee referral bonus; discount programs; and more. Toxikon is an equal opportunity employer.